ERA, 2015

Prepare for success as an arts manager in the vibrant arts sector with the only qualification of its kind in South Australia. In this exciting degree you will be able to use your passion for the arts and develop an advanced understanding of contemporary management theory and how it applies to the various elements of the creative arts and cultural industries.

You will develop leadership and problem-solving abilities, and the knowledge and skills to inform policy-making at government and peak industry body levels. Your studies will cover arts leadership and governance, arts philanthropy, event and festival management and arts venues and facilities management. You will learn the complex relationship between government, not-for-profit and private sponsorship of the arts.

Our summer and winter schools offer exciting study and learning opportunities. With the option to study intensives as well as on-line, you can spread your study load across the year and maximise your opportunities to undertake internships and placements.

Study in the capital of the Festival State of South Australia, home to some of the largest arts and cultural festivals in Australia, with professionals who are experts in their field.

Join the top 1% of Business Schools, one of only 167 business schools worldwide to be awarded EQUIS accreditation, the world's leading international accreditation for business schools (EFMD Quality Improvement System).
